STAY FOCUSED, KEEP IT TOGETHER – WE HAVEN'T SEEN ANYTHING YET

RECAP

Last week's Stardrops presented:

Venus moving into Libra – Oct 26 - November 20

The inspiration to achieve peace, closeness and love, beauty and harmony with others.

October 31

Full Moon in Taurus (conjoin the Black Moon in Taurus and Uranus in Taurus)

IT'S ALL ABOUT CHANGE

(Sun at 8* Scorpio oppose Moon at 8* Taurus which also conjoins Uranus at 8* and Black Moon in Taurus) triggering the theme we've been experiencing all month from Mercury retro at 8-11* Scorpio oppose Uranus at 8* Taurus.

These two Astro cycles invite us to examine deeply our inner and outer lives . Again, it's all about Separating from the old Self –noticing what we need to change and other key Exposure and Separating themes.

Separating one thing from another, our healthy self from something else, even our past understanding of ourselves personally and globally is expanding.

The Full Moon's Exposure and Reveal of A Clown World we've been tolerating etc is part of this reveal, separating and choices. Uranus conjoin Moon, the revelation of Clown World. No wonder we've accommodated strange compartments within ourselves, living in the eccentric and bizarre global family we've been “Born” into.

The Full Moon, as the pinnacle of the past 30 days of Mercury Retro Oppose Uranus, has helped us reach another milestone of reality.

Even though the process of reveal played out all October, and the Full Moon hits another Astro crescendo October 31, the revelations will continue to play out throughout the rest of the year, because once you “SEE” now you can never go back. One truth will now build on another and another until we are totally free. Are you seeing this pattern unfold? We have more to experience yet the Key is to protect our Functioning Life, to keep going while we're experiencing mini-shocks, earthquakes and some tsunamis.

THE WORLD

It's obvious that with this Full Moon conjoin Uranus Oct 31 and throughout the rest of 2020... along with the October Mercury retro oppose Uranus theme and Mars in Aries Retro from mid July through December 2020 in addition to the unbelievable astrology the U.S. is now receiving 2020 – 2023, we are in yet another Crescendo Period right now of personal agitation and globally potential violence, stepped up hatred and panic. So, continue keeping our cool. The pressure is tough but we can handle this.

This cycle could also launch the Separating out from an old Taurus ownership – I'm thinking Economically from one financial system to an independent Financial system ----no matter where you live in the world, economically, there could be a Taurean system break ups- splits, separating and re-defining who's tied into what system and who is not and what are they doing that we're not going to do and vice versus. Uranus i.e. Awakening and Freedom, Taurus = I own my own stuff, life, money and have value. Just put them together. Uranus moved into Taurus a few years ago and will continue for about 7 more years. Right now, it's involved in a Full Moon and all October has been opposing Mercury Retrograde in Scorpio. Take any possible scenario of world economic future, positive or slavery and there is the tension October, between the two – however, the Mercury forced decisions and plans to materialize. Most likely in several camps.

Taurus Scorpio rules a separating from certain values that we do not desire - “We value this way – they value that way – This situation and path is what they have deemed priority for them, for me, or us, we choose these values and make them our priorities “ and so forth.

With Uranus and Black Moon involved, these are powder keg issues, deal breakers for some – explosive fireworks of choices which could seriously sever groups from other groups, relationships or consciousness from another type of consciousness around the world.

Soon Jupiter and Saturn, in December, will unify and raise most up to a higher agreed upon Priority, what really matters, and make that the banner of Unity as the future goal.

But we still need to get through 2022 -2023 – Pluto return in U.S. 1776 natal chart and then some several years after, to bring this world into its higher blueprint potential. At any rate, the December 2020 Astrology will be the next landmark consciousness changer, solidifying what the dominant community theme is for the next few years and beyond.

Remember - Nov 1 – 6

Mercury at 26* Libra station direct square Saturn at 26* Capricorn

Mercury retrograde ends on November 3rd in a square to Saturn. We talked about this in last week's Stardrops.

It means we're all being gently guided towards personal self discipline.

Are you experiencing any sort of pressure to take a next step towards facing something you need to get on top of?

Or commit oneself seriously to a course of action that removes a temptation, cheating, procrastination with an important goal?

Realizing, “It's now or never, I've got to do this now, jump in and embrace this responsibility, it truly is up to me because I've been secretly hoping life will just take care of it for me but no one is rescuing me” or something of that nature.

Globally, it's also a Saturnian severity of boundaries enforced in some way. I made the analogy of receiving this transit in your own charts last week. Transiting Saturn square Mercury. If you've ever had that cycle, it's a “don't mess with me” transit.

You draw the line. Maybe you've been nice and extended a long leash but now it's over and you're expecting better.

Imagine, the whole world is going to witness this play out in the next two weeks.

Nov 3 Venus at 8* Libra inconjunct Uranus at 8* Taurus On the 3rd, a disconnect of friends, social groups, loved ones or social values, out of sync feeling, inconvenienced or even social unrest and disruption around us could be seen. Not a good time to drop your guard.

Nov 7 Sun at 16* Scorpio inconjunct Mars at 15* The power of Sun in Scorpio's investigating, penetrating nature as to how far one will go in order to achieve a goal. For some it will be to acquire knowledge and get one's vision back. This vision is a gift you possess. It's a value, a virtue, that kind of awareness, analysis and tenacity for your survival. However, someone is incongruent and processing at a different speed, going a different way, hence a frustrating period let's say from the fifth to the ninth of November, where we want to be on the same page with others, have similar paths and vision. Try to just let it slide for those days, as it could be difficult.

Assignment - How has the Separating Theme and the Full Moon conjoin Uranus changed your awareness of something about yourself, what you must do and how you now need to move forward? (Mercury retro oppose Uranus all October, and Full Moon in Taurus/Scorpio beginning on Oct 31 2020 and processing all November)

SOMETHING HAPPY

As we approach December, Saturn and Jupiter joining together at zero degrees Aquarius (the beginning of a new potential for the majority of the world to join in Unity) will create a jump into a brand new path, just like you're moving along a particular rote path of familiarity, and Poof just like that, a new theme, a new awareness and energy permeates the atmosphere around us, and suddenly we have a higher level of priorities and opportunity. I've been telling you, we've been living in and out of different frequencies, consciousness, realities, possibly even timelines. You choose which one you desire to be on, and keep pressing on for that higher heaven.
