

STARDROPS OCTOBER 9 2022

Could it be possible our combined powers, our love and ability to project what is desired out into our world each day is holding the balance for planet earth? By the will and determination of only a few but powerful individuals, (and I mean millions out of the 7.75 billion people out there) could very well be swaying the outcomes of earth's future. I don't believe just random meaningless cycles come and go creating chaos. I believe Higher forces are playing out a grand purpose on multi-levels for an end goal so complex we can't comprehend. Yet we're playing an epic role. We might not always understand why it's happening the way it is, but we're moving along living day by day, some in incredibly difficult situations and others more protected yet still soberly working towards the best positive outcomes. The Venus transits at the end of this article could be a small but significant moment in time where this upliftment, this very power altering the outcome by our hearts, could occur.

Let's recap from the past few Stardrops.

Mars in Gemini continues to activate and motivate logical thinking. It's ongoing influence from August 21, 2022 through March 25, 2023 has already shown signs of facing certain logistics, wanting to organize our environment, to all sorts of mental decisions, order, prioritizing that needs to be done.

For eight months, we're experiencing a step up of this Gemini energy. It is a multi faceted intellectually articulate power. It motivates intense creativity, curiosity, adaptable thinking and the need to communicate or express oneself whether artistic, engineering, politics, writing or technology, Mars in Gemini increases our mental stimulation and can motivate us towards addressing issues head on in any possible area. It enhances all areas of information, organizing one's thoughts, papers, files, research, gathering facts and data, driven to close sales, make arrangements, appointments and handle contracts and agreements.

You'll be noticing themes surrounding speeches, lectures, announcements, documents, paperwork, meetings and commitments where important decisions must be made. You'll begin to sense trends, patterns. A mental brilliance, a knowing begins to interface with your own mind. It's nonconformist behavior assists us to expand beyond our human reasoning and bring down a higher knowing.

image credit

This cycle can open up your intuitive pathways guiding you in a greater way to deeper understandings about what matters in your life. It is a powerful cycle because Mars will be lasting so long in Gemini from last August through March 25 2023. It turns retrograde on Oct 30, where certain issues will come to a head. Then leave Retrograde going Direct on January 12, 2023 picking up where we left off late October through November. It's more like a review then moving forward with our next steps we could have set in motion during the August 21 - October 30 period. Both of those dates, the Oct 30 and January 12, allowing three weeks before and after each date, will be highly charged with more decisions, supercharging your mental abilities and downloading more important information into your awareness. It is helping us think better regardless of your situation. However, the combo of the Mars/Neptune October 8 - November 23rd may very well be the strangest cycle we're personally facing.

Spiritual Detox

Some might experience this period of Mars/Neptune by battling negative emotional toxic energies which continue to surface. The negative memories or projections of guilt, regrets, depressive feelings can overwhelm. They would hold pictures of events, people, situations rather than just feelings. Challenging them and throwing them off of us, like a mental/emotional detox is what's in store. Could some of these energies be curses thrown upon us from the past by people or situations consciously or not, that have persisted to bother us....but now it's up for a purge? Mars is challenging Neptune's darker side which tends to carry with it astral low frequencies. Prayers, affirmations and energy work on ourselves such as Qigong, would be most helpful now.

In regards to every day living, you can literally engage in a course of action through this period, to address things which have been neglected as this Mars squares the planet Neptune. Neptune could represent things not handled or confusing things which were hanging out there not knowing what they entail.

The dates exact for the square will be October 8, 2022 through November 23, 2022.

During this time, many will experience a confrontation with issues which might not seem easily resolved because there are so many nebulous unknown factors. This is mostly in the world and so we're entering a very tricky time with no easy solutions right away.

This cycle lifts on November 23, then returns March 10 - 20 2023 for a quick final cycle.

Globally, a continual barrage of difficult news continues to challenge our sense of security and certainty. It presents uneasy subjects whether true or deceptive and can cause continual disturbances. Mars produces aggressive acts and Neptune can be deceptive and invasive with the nature of instilling fear or major disturbances. It's crucial to rise above this drama now. We need to become the Mars confronting the Neptunian confusion or disruptions.

To counteract this energy, no matter if disruptive issues are happening to or around you or globally, concentrate upon the vision of what you do want, what you do desire to see manifest around you and in the world. Hold that vision strongly as we continue to move through this difficult undercurrent of the unknown outcomes of so many issues occurring simultaneously. We will get through this, and in the meantime, anywhere you need order in your life, let's get on with it as Mars can bring tremendous spurts of motivation to cut through on any thing which you do have control over.

I AM steady each day with my attention placed only upon my desired outcomes.

September 15 - October 23

Transiting Saturn from 17 -18* square Uranus at 18 - 19* Taurus.

This cycle is playing in the background of the world. I say background, because these two planets never exactly line up into a perfect square, but come very very close. That means we'll see signs of being corralled or contained into a particular necessary course to follow, but it won't be so severe. We'll have some wiggle room, some softness to work with through this cycle.

In the world, it's tension can be seen in severely conflicted regions and complicated situations where there are no easy ways out of any given situation. Like a standoff hoping one another is bluffing, but it's a dangerous risk. Little options are available and one can see advantages and challenges with each choice. My hunch, is Saturn will win out with some restrictive control and in Aquarius, appears to be the most humane option but is it really?

Oct 10 -14 Sun and Venus at 13-15* Libra inconjunct North Node and Uranus in Taurus.

Socially uncomfortable with some awkward moments. There can be tensions where relationships should be nice, cooperative, happy and supportive, but the inconjunct causes some hiccups. Venus and Sun are moving into a focal point of a larger pattern which culminates around October

Oct 12 Mercury at 1* Libra oppose Jupiter at 1* Aries A bit of an idealistic day possibly having to wrap your mind around some thing which seems too difficult to grasp. This may be a day of having to gather information and open oneself up to another way or situation....another path or approach. It's important to remain positive as we learn something new that might seem a bit hard.

I AM reasonable, open and focusing all love, light into the most complex situations. I send love into all problems and withdraw from anxiety, tension and limiting attitudes. All negative behavior is now replaced with a Higher Purpose always.

Oct 13-19 Venus at 18° - 25° Libra trine Saturn at 18° Aquarius and trine Mars at 24° Gemini.

A grounding energy inspiring us to show up for love and truth, give and accept love, support and reinforcements. A perfect time to accept a situation and move forward. It's time to make peace within yourself and/or for others. To be there for another in a solid committed way and allow them to be there for you. It might be experienced with business or social and personal. It is a grounding pragmatic responsible feeling in regards to love and relationships and committing to something. A positive and agreeable connection. Many are what we call holding the balance for planetary situations, creating a buffer in way so the worst does not happen. This cycle is very possibly the crescendo of that power released along with the YOD configuration below.

Oct 16 -23 Venus and the Sun at 20 - 29° Libra inconjunct Neptune at 23° Pisces and Uranus at 18-17° Taurus.

Venus inconjuncts Uranus first, from the 12th - 15th of October at 15 - 20° Libra to Uranus at 18 -17° Taurus. Next Venus inconjuncts Neptune from October 15 - 19th at 20 - 25° Libra inconjunct Neptune at 23° Pisces.

and then followed by a Venus / Sun on October 16 - 23rd, exact on October 22 at 29° Libra.

This entire month of October has been primarily focused upon the power of mentally processing issues and important pieces of information in order to learn and make key conclusions. But much needed Venus is moving into the trine to Mars, trine to Saturn, then a Finger of God (YOD) with Neptune at 23° and Uranus in Taurus at 18-17° creating an opportunity to enhance the love no matter what is going on in the world or personal. It's finding that doorway of truth inside us all which is what elevates us, reminding us of what is ultimately important. It magnetically moves us in the direction of transforming ourselves, our priorities and possibly even energetically by the power of your heart, the world situation for the better. This could happen regardless of what is going on around you.

At this point, here is a nice interview with Gregg Braden on the theme of intention which was recorded October 2021. It's a nice Video entry point to Lynne McTaggart's Youtube Channel with this very theme of intention and our power within to create miracles. (More Stardrops following Video).

The New Human and the New Community - YouTube

With these Venus aspects, we'll be reevaluating what truly matters as we go deeper into love. The latter part of October has more of a hopeful loving opportunity. Concentration upon financial security continues and more than anything, choosing love and valuing our heart versus more challenging circumstances one may have had to handle lately. It's going to require two shifts – one, away from that Neptune unknown factor which can create much apprehension and anxiety, and two, shifting away from Uranus' unstable world situations and some personal issues which are the typical out of left field Uranus surprises.

These Uranus energies are also anxiety producing. Both Neptune and Uranus (top of the wheel) are in angles called inconjuncts targeting the Sun and Venus in Libra. The Sun and Venus in Libra will be the target planets, like a focal point or doorway of power released to shift situations for the better as long as we remain focused upon what truly matters. Libra is about love also, along with Venus. Libra focus is also karmic balance, fairness and through an act of Neptune sacrifice, one loves enough to go through something. It's a shift. Uranus' positive part is the altering or changing of outcomes for the better.

<https://youtu.be/sy25mdWcRPU>

APPOINTMENTS
Receive Starfires Newsletters
sirius@starfires.com
www.starfires.com