

Saturn's Role In Waking Up The World

December 3 2023

Saturn moved into Pisces March 2023 and lasts up to 2026.

As Saturn moves forward, beyond the zero point in Pisces, (0 degrees) which it has been in since October, a new energy descends on the planet. It's as if Saturn, the planet which symbolizes enforcing and crystallizing lessons for us, has finished an important task in the past few months.

What is this task Saturn has achieved?

The realization of the severity of hidden factors on our planet, of those in authority playing different roles, may not be all they appear to be on the outer. Saturn not only presents an overall wisdom for us to digest certain realities more deeply, but helps us expand our abilities to use our higher senses and intelligence to take in this information and re-direct our future in an empowered way.

Therefore, we develop a knowing, almost a non verbal comprehension of what we're dealing with on earth with certain group consciousness which are attempting to run things and have been, for thousands of years.

In other words, Saturn has two jobs in Pisces, stationary at zero degrees for the past few months.

Saturn's Important role in Pisces for you and me.

1. Saturn's desire in Pisces is to assist us with our capacity to know, feel, intuit truth. To sense the essence of a thing, to trust our abilities to capture themes, concepts and larger ideas. To trust our "hits" of insights. Many times we get hits about a situation. We might not have facts yet to back it up, but they are so deep and true, we almost know, it is so.. Especially if the same experience repeats.

1. Think of the greatest attainment of the sign Piscesthis is what Saturn moving through the amazing sign Pisces is attempting to make of us. Bit by bit Saturn will help you face each and every demon, fear, disappointment and unwind, disentangle you from a web. Replacing every piece with truth of your ultimate happiness.

Saturn began its movement into Pisces on March 7 2023. and moved rapidly forward up to 7 degrees Pisces by June-August 2023. It turned retrograde on June 17. It then proceeded to move backwards (from earths' perspective). It moved all the way back to 2, 1, 0 degrees on September 9 up to December 27 2023. Imagine Saturn holding us in a lesson that long! It had a reason. This is what happens when a Planet appears to completely stop in its motion and go stationary. It releases an expanded momentum of its power to influence us, get a message across.

Could Saturn have released onto the world of humanity some penetrating rays, where no barrier, wall, secret chamber, underground, high in space, technology could block it? An impenetrable essence of Divine Love qualified with precise laser like information, a relentless wave of assistance for us? Could it have released a sort of filtering action to assist us with rising above projections of discouragement in so many areas of our lives? Saturn released a chemicalization onto earth, to dissolve layers of subterfuge so we could come up higher to a clearer way of living.

I'm going to say it – for those who understand, it's possible Saturn's stationary position for these past few months, has had the job to not only release this wave of transcending illusions of the world, but to release a penetrating judgment of energies coming from higher realms upon those who continue to generate the illusions and terrible decisions in every area which impacts humanity. A cleansing and dissolving of their powers, in a way. It would be acting like its own chemicalization to dissolve and stop corruption, like a solution, a liquid, when poured onto a metal, penetrates and interacts with that object to scour and stop deterioration. It's hard to put it into words, but I can see it. It removes much of the false magical powers perpetuating unreality, once held by those in control, for the beautiful people of this world to make the changes for the better.

It is initiating us to the real Magic of Reality.

Saturn helps us see we are living in several realities on this planet and emanates an essence of enlightenment with a desire to elevate ourselves towards love and progress. There is so much more to say on this subject, I could go on as you know, but we have more to cover in this post, so let's leave Saturn for now, as it has a full run up to 2026 to do its job.

Other Planetary Movements Underway...

Dec 2- 3 Venus in Libra square Pluto in Capricorn

The natural beauty of Venus' ability to draw people together might be a bit strained on these days. Certain conflicts might occur involving showing up for others versus personal tasks you have on your mind to do. These create frustrations. Love and friendship are simply formalities these days. You might feel tired.

Social stresses can occur where there are tasks and duties we might need to walk through for others, yet we're not quite up to it, or in the mood. This quick cycle might create some tension in your social relationship area of your life, so be on guard for hurt feelings, but also being too severe with your reactions towards another this day. Some setbacks might happen involving finances, or a social conflict with people/person where the social demands are not meshing with your ideal day.

Dec 2-4 Mars in Sagittarius inconjunct Jupiter in Taurus

Inconveniences get in the way of more important things. Adjustments and disruptions of your priorities could take you in a different direction. Once these obligations are handled one can return to more important matters.

Be cautious for arguments during these days. Mars can easily cause faux pas, insults or thoughtless comments which are not taken lightly. Recklessness in all ways should be guarded against. Guard against physical exhaustion, or putting too much strain on your body now.

Something you might be trying to accomplish in the way of focusing upon an idea, a piece of wisdom might be just out of your reach. This is a good time to ask for higher guidance, the wisdom and clarity to come and for the clearing away of any density. A shift in understanding something should happen.

Dec 4-6 Venus in Scorpio trine Saturn in Pisces

Venus in Scorpio opens the door for deeper feelings to be experienced within ourselves. As it moves into Scorpio it makes a strong positive tie to Saturn. A mature and realistic approach to the people in our lives is felt. Solid commitments, trustworthy alliances and support, This cycle of Venus, brings to certain areas of our life into a steady balanced way and with reliable people. We can feel a greater sensibility in connection with our family/work/friendships. It doesn't matter if it's your love life or a co-worker, or within family situations, this cycle helps realign people we are connected to, back to what really matters, and drop the difficult parts of a relationship, an ideal, an expectation. Cooperation, productivity, support and respect can come from a mutually aligned set of values and priorities you recognize with others during this time

Dec 7 – Dec 18 Mercury stationary trine Jupiter in Taurus

As explained in the Mercury retro below, this is a very constructive period in order to put into place new structures, new project. perimeters or outlines. Templates. It creates progress with truly wrapping up several parts of a plan and beginning to pull it all together. It brings task, project good fortune.

Globally, Mercury retro in Capricorn trine Jupiter in Taurus is placed within the 5th and 9th houses of the U.S. Natal chart giving it a potential for positive outcomes. Some form of decisions drawn up on documents which are in sync with higher ethical values creates protection for self or for others, a protocol guiding the way, in some form.

Dec 8 Venus Scorpio oppose Jupiter in Taurus

Learning to accommodate another person's needs and attempting to give, support, work with someone's situation might be what is on our plate this day. It's simply a day of helping and making the effort to support anyway we can.

Dec 10-11 Mercury in Capricorn sextile Venus in Scorpio

A few days of harmonious pleasant experiences. It would be a good thing to attempt to carve out a few days of wonderful time with special people. Even if it is involving work, there is a lighter joyous energy to share. Meetings, conversations, connecting and discussing important things on your mind and heart are what makes these days break up the busyness we all face each week.

Mercury Retrograde at 8* Capricorn December 13, 2023

Dec 1 – Dec 13

Mercury enters Capricorn and sextiles Saturn, in Pisces, sextiles Venus in Scorpio, and trine Jupiter in Taurus as it moves towards retrograde December 1- 12th, then continues to trine Jupiter for most of December, which is a good thing.

The theme of this Mercury retro supports concentrating upon implementing a template, or a plan. I see it more as an actual written down template, or document or outline of some sort. It's not just in our minds eye, it's implemented, brought into physical reality.

Whether it is a professional event, instructions, system or personal need, this cycle inspires discipline to map out, focus, implement the plan and then do it!

Now up through December, we can become very focused upon achieving something we truly care about. As usual, Mercury releases a concept or insight for us, into the why and how we are to achieve this thing. It leaves us with a feeling, that it has to be done if we are to be aligned with our timeline. Each Mercury retrograde period can do this for us. Some are vague, some are crystal clear. I have a sense this one now, is extremely specific and clear. It's the primary inspiration which keeps nagging you right now up through December, especially through December 12th 2023.

As it moves through Capricorn in December, it will trine Jupiter which expands projects, finances, reaching others, making ourselves understood. It's good for business, meetings and getting through to others as to what your idea of how something could work. This aspect especially around the dates of December 7 and December 18, then a third time, January 19th, 2023, brings an expansive experience to very practical ideas and can assist you with abundance, security and accomplishing your goal. Practical work, organizing material, concentration upon many levels of projects or daily life can be accomplished. Executing projects, personal or professional are positively amazing now.

Affirmation

“ Masterfully, I AM aligned with the full majesty of My Divine Presence which creates around me, reality in all things, truth and the way forward.”

The second major Mercury retro aspect is Mercury sextile Saturn in Pisces. This one creates happy collaborations with others who have more authority, official, have some professional talents or ability to open doors for you, where we feel their assistance and support, and for some, a professional camaraderie. It is a practical serious discussion which can be experienced with someone who sees you and gets it. The date for this helpful transit which get our powerful Mercury theme going will be December 1 – 3, December 20 - 22, and the third and last, January 17-20, 2024. These would be the most highlighted moments for collaboration with important people. Personal and professionally.

Also, Mercury sextiles Venus in Scorpio on December 10-12. happy times with others, partnerships, harmony with making plans with others spread good cheer during this holiday season. Spend time with your special people, even if you have to really think about it and make that effort to enjoy the company of others.

With all of these nice aspects, some good news or achievement is occurring globally, plus new ideas inspire your heart. Much good work can be experienced now in anything you invest yourself in, relationships, a project, an event, your health and well being. You can feel a great sense of productivity.

Globally speaking, this Mercury retrograde could release information which could involve the economy. since the Mercury is trine Jupiter in Taurus, which rules finance and the value of money, one new theme will be trending this December and January regarding a new step taken to implement positive solution to economic situations.

That's all for today - I leave you with a deep conversation into global matters I found helpful. It's long, but worth listening to, if you like detailed and descriptive events shared by those who were present when major global events were decided upon. These events molded the world. The farther into the discussion in this video, the more you get a clear picture of our Saturn in Pisces' job.
